MCCA is a professional association of Chiefs and Sheriffs representing the largest cities in the United States and Canada. MCCA membership is comprised of Chiefs and Sheriffs of the sixty-nine largest law enforcement agencies in the United States and nine largest in Canada. They serve 79.9 million people (65.7 US and 14.2 Canada) with a workforce of 251,082 (222,973 US and 28,110 Canada) officers and non-sworn personnel.
On behalf of the Major Cities Chiefs Association, we are pleased to present our 2018 Annual Report. We invite you to read the report and learn more about our organization including the many accomplishments of our member agencies. MCCA exists to provide our member agencies a strong voice on a variety of criminal justice and public safety topics.

With over 78 of the largest law enforcement agencies across the United States and Canada, MCCA represents a significant portion of the population. We worked hard in 2018 on influencing major policy issues to support our men and women across our law enforcement organizations and to build stronger communities.

I look forward to continuing to serve in 2019 and lead our organization as we face the many challenges across the profession.

Art Acevedo
Chief of Police
Houston, TX Police Department
2018 was a very active year for the Major Cities Chiefs Association. Our three meetings were heavily attended, our committees were active and grew in number, and we successfully brought in several grant funded projects to benefit our member agencies and the profession of policing. Our work in Washington, D.C. throughout the year solidified the reputation of the Major Cities Chiefs Association as a strong advocate for police leadership in the US's largest cities. Our relationship with the US Department of Justice is very strong, and we've increased our interaction with other federal agencies who often serve as our partners. On Capitol Hill, we continue to provide expert testimony and advocacy for sound public policy and legislation that helps our Major Cities agencies keep our collective communities safe.

To the North, we held our first Canada-members Major Cities roundtable event at the Canada Association of Chiefs of Police Conference in Halifax, Nova Scotia, and plan on making this an annual event.

Throughout this report, you will see that our Committees perform a tremendous amount of work on behalf of the Association, and we remain very grateful for the agency CEO's who commit resources to ensure committee successes.

We finished the year with the successful completion of a second two-year term by President Tom Manger, Chief of the Montgomery County MD Police. We are in great hands with his successor, Chief Art Acevedo of the Houston TX Police, and look forward to working with Tom in an exciting new capacity in 2019.

This year for the first time, our Annual Report was prepared by our Public Information Officer Committee. Congratulations on an outstanding product!

As always, if there is anything that I or our outstanding Associate Director Patricia Williams can do to be of service, don't hesitate to contact us.

Executive Director
MCCA MISSION
The mission of MCCA is to provide a forum for police executives from large population centers to address the challenges and issues of policing, to influence national and international policy that affects police services, to enhance the development of current and future police leaders, and to encourage and sponsor research that advances this mission.

MCCA VISION
MCCA is the place where police executives and others come to learn and collaborate. MCCA is a primary place where policy makers, researchers, government leaders, and the media turn when wanting to know the best international policing practices; to test innovations in police operations and technology; and to seek advice and assistance on specific policing issue. It is where its members learn how to improve themselves, their executive command staff, and their departments. The MCCA and its member departments represent excellence in policing.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES
The mission and vision of MCCA will be achieved by all members working together and being guided by the following principles:

LEADING - We are the association of police leaders who are shaping policing by examining the difficult issue, influencing national and international discussions and policies on policing issues and demanding excellence in police services not only among our membership but throughout the profession. Our work leads to increasing public trust in policing and enhancing the legitimacy of our profession.

COLLABORATION - Our work must be done in partnership and collaboration with our communities and other policing organizations, universities, policy research organizations, government executives and legislators, and federal, state and local law enforcement. We recognize that globalization means we share issues, problems, goals and solutions with our countries.

KNOWLEDGE-BASED PRACTICE - We value life-long learning and understand that policing is ever changing. We also know that the work of police executive of a major city agency is demanding and complex. Education, support, mentoring, and assistance will be provided to our members and others. We will work with others to improve the science and art of executive police leadership.

INNOVATION - As the leaders of the major police agencies, we have a responsibility to help advance the profession of policing. This will be done by encouraging our members to open their departments as learning laboratories, advocating for funding to develop, testing new technology, practices, and approaches.
The PIO Committee has taken lead on a COPS Office Grant that focuses on re-branding the profession. Preliminary meetings have already taken place and the scope of the project includes scripting video ads, social media ads, and radio ads.

The pilot test markets are tentatively scheduled for Chicago and Phoenix. A survey on citizen perceptions towards law enforcement will be conducted prior to the ad campaign and be conducted post campaign to see if there was any meaningful change in citizen attitudes towards policing.
Themed roundtables were introduced where critical incidents, recruiting issues, and counterintelligence threats were discussed. The team heard report outs from the Legislative, Human Resources and Technology Committees.

This committee provides a forum for addressing operational and policy issues related to homeland security and violent crime concerns. It supports information sharing relationships of member agencies primarily through the Intelligence Commanders Group (ICG), which is a joint group with the Major County Sheriffs of America. Maintaining information sharing partnerships with federal intelligence agencies, fusion centers, and other organizations is a priority.

2018 Homeland Security Committee and Intelligence Commanders Group High-Level Achievements

- Enlisted 100% Participation of all U.S. Members in the Threat Review and Prioritization Process
- Established the 2018 National Threat Picture (NTP) - the Priority Threat Issues of Major City Law Enforcement
- Secured Funding for Four Priority Projects of the ICG
- Published the Critical Issues for Intelligence Commanders Series in Conjunction with the Department of Justice
- Reinvigorated strong partnerships with Federal Bureau of Investigations, Department of Homeland Security, Terrorist Screening Center, Office of the Director of National Intelligence, National Fusion Center Association, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and London Metropolitan Police

The priority issues and projects of the committee and of the Intelligence Commanders Group are detailed in the following sections.

Identifying and Combatting Local and National Threat Issues and – 100% Participation

The committee was happy to announce 100% participation from the U.S. members in the Threat Review and Prioritization Process. The partnership with the FBI on this project continues to be strong and a model to emulate in future partnerships. Phase II updates were made to the TRP portal to incorporate additional analytic capabilities and for TRP entry by MCSA agencies and Canadian MCCA agencies in 2019. The Committee looks forward to promoting opportunities for identifying best practices and fostering collaboration against the priority threat issues through this project. The National Threat Picture will also be used as a common voice of the major city law enforcement when working with federal and elected officials to discuss priority needs.
Preventing Terrorism and Targeted Violence

Member agencies are all working to find the best way to assess the threat level of individuals and identify who may be at-risk of being vulnerable to turning to violence. There is an opportunity to use the same approaches to counter violent crime, targeted violence, extremism, and terrorism and it may be a more effective and efficient strategy. There is also the challenge of getting the people to speak up and to understand the role of preventing violence and make them aware of concerning behavior that this Committee is addressing. Identifying and promoting paths for supporting these individuals rather than just arresting them might compel more people to report their concerns and prevent violence.

The Intelligence Commanders Group is also looking at the best way to identify individuals who are moving between jurisdictions that may be of concern and how to ensure they don’t move toward violence. The Homeland Security Committee is currently working on the DHS Preventing Terrorism and Targeted Violence Implementation Guide to address these issues. More details on this project are outlined below.

Establish Intelligence Commanders Group as a Formal National Information Sharing Network

Major city and county law enforcement agencies have a unique perspective and role in addressing crime and terrorism concerns. A strong national information sharing network is needed among all member agencies to connect criminal intelligence information to have a better opportunity to investigate and stop serious crimes, violence, and terrorism. This type of system does not currently exist. Early research has identified some possible existing systems that may be able to provide a starting point. Additionally, models for establishing a more permanent source of funding for this formal network are being explored. Approaches being used regionally and nationally by the NYPD and London Metropolitan Police are also being examined to identify elements that can be adapted by the ICG. A working group of Intelligence Commanders is being formed to further research, consider opportunities, and chart a path forward.
Maintaining Access to Digital Evidence (Going Dark)

Accessing digital evidence continues to be difficult for police agencies because of encryption of devices and apps and the failure of some technology developers and communications providers to follow court orders. The committee continues to support the FBI in their work to collect information to convey the severity of this issue. The National Domestic Communications Assistance Center (NDCAC) continues to support member agencies by providing training on accessing digital evidence.

Intelligence and Crime Analysis

The work of Intelligence Commanders is supported by their analysts and analytic technologies. Training opportunities are identified to advance analytic capabilities and new approaches are sought to address gaps in capabilities. Additionally, since analytic resources may be limited in some agencies, outside analytic resources are identified that can be used by all member agencies. As agencies identify new technology resources to gather, process, and analyze vast sources and quantities of information, they share their experiences and best practices with other agencies to improve capabilities of all members.

Violent Crime

The committee worked closely with the FBI and member agencies to identify drivers of violent crime and best practices. These results have supported the efforts of member agencies to reduce violent crime and to provide the groundwork for updates in the strategies of the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ). Increasing support for local agencies is expected from DOJ’s National Public Safety Partnerships (NPSP) and Project Safe Neighborhoods (PSN).

Innovation

Whether through the use of technology, development of new practices, or updated application of existing practices, the Homeland Security Committee and Intelligence Commanders Group looked to identify cutting-edge practices and technology applications, like the new Las Vegas Technical Operations Center or the NYPD Field Intelligence Officer Program, to address agency challenges and needs.
The Intelligence Commanders Group serves as the only national forum for the discussion and analysis of intelligence related issues specifically related to local police agencies. Maintaining a national network of major city and county intelligence commanders allows for rapid information exchange in a diverse and very fluid threat environment. Accurate and timely information exchange is paramount in crime and terrorism prevention and includes the information sharing partnerships with federal intelligence agencies, fusion centers, and other organizations in the Intelligence Community.

The ICG serves as a national forum for discussion and analysis of intelligence issues faced by the major cities and counties of the United States, including traditional criminal and homeland security related intelligence activities. It also identifies and examines common information sharing issues and proposes common solutions for intelligence collection, analysis, and investigations, including identifying intelligence training needs and coordinating training opportunities for members.

The Intelligence Commanders Group held two meetings in 2018:

- Long Beach, California – January 24: Over 60 attendees participated in this meeting, which was focused around the finalization of the Critical Issues for Intelligence Commanders Series and its three priority topics: Preventing Terrorism and Targeted Violence, Police and Technical Operations, and Maintaining Access to Digital Evidence.
- Orlando, Florida – October 4: There were over 100 attendees at this annual gathering of the ICG. Important briefings were provided by the London Metropolitan Police, the El Paso Intelligence Center, Amtrak Intelligence, National Counterintelligence and Security Center, Terrorist Screening Center, and Deputy Commissioner John Miller of the NYPD.

Additionally, representatives from the Intelligence Commanders Group participated in the following:

- CG Threat Assessment Working Group (TAWG) Meetings (January 23/Long Beach, April 20/Houston, September 12/Washington, DC, November/Los Angeles)
- TRP Kick-Off Meeting, Houston Police Department, April 21
- Leadership in Counter Terrorism Alumni Association Annual Conference, New York, April 25-27
- MCCA Summer Meeting, Nashville, Tennessee, May 31
- CICC Intelligence Summit, FBI Headquarters, Washington, DC, September 11
- NYPD SENTRY Annual Conference, New York City, October 30
- Leadership in Counter Terrorism Alumni Association Annual Australia Conference, Melbourne, December 10-12
The Intelligence Commanders Group has been working to bring additional support and value to its member agencies through their priority projects.

Goals for Projects: Strengthen Intelligence Commander Capabilities and Build a National Network.

Critical Issues for Intelligence Commanders Official Publication
Recommendations and Needs COMPLETED

This white paper was developed with the support of a Department of Justice (DOJ) Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA) grant and addresses three current priority issues for law enforcement that are expected to require continuing focus into the future:

- Technical and Virtual Operations
- Preventing Terrorism and Targeted Violence
- Maintaining Access to Digital Evidence

This guide identifies recommendations for what MCCA and MCSA agencies can do to successfully confront each issue and where additional support or resources could help to make a greater impact. Success has already been realized from this project as mentioned in the report:

"The positive impact from this project has already been realized. It has become a strategic roadmap to guide the ICG on how it can best help its membership. Also, it has already resulted in agencies adopting best practices from other programs and it has increased offers of support and collaboration between member law enforcement agencies and from federal agency partners. All of these are positive and lasting steps that have made agencies more effective in their ultimate goal of protecting their communities."

State and Local Anti-Terrorism Training (SLATT) Program BEGINNING

The BJA SLATT program provides training to increase the knowledge and capacity of practitioners to detect, investigate, and interdict violent domestic terrorist acts through training. The MCCA and ICG are partnering with IIR to provide two designees to participate on an Advisory Group, provide at least four to six subject matter experts to help creating program curricula, vet all deliverables, and deliver training and technical assistance through in-person and remote-learning activities. It will provide updated training to increase capabilities of Intelligence Commander Group agencies and small and medium local partners to maintain their focus and capabilities against terrorism. The project includes the following elements:

- Develop/Deliver/Receive Training
- For all sizes of agencies
ODNI: Comprehensive Threat Assessment Approach  CONTINUING

Supports the continuing work of the ICG and the TAWG to develop a comprehensive threat assessment approach. It establishes the NTP among all member agencies to increase collaboration between agencies on problems and solutions, streamline the process to identify best practices, identify emerging and decreasing threat issues, and identify priority threat issues to inform federal partners and community efforts. The project includes the following elements:

- Threat Assessment Tools
- Portal Updates
- Agency Support/Collaboration
- Trend Analysis
- Best Practice Identification

ODNI: Terrorist Screening Center  NEW

This project will take the next steps to ensure immediate information sharing takes place to prevent terrorism and support TSC’s potential incorporation of Transnational Criminal Organizations. Policy updates might include addressing gaps in information sharing to ensure individuals on the Terrorist Screening Center Database (TSDB) do not slip through the cracks. MCCA will make the national system stronger as the only law enforcement partner with the TSDB. The project includes the following elements:

- Outreach/Materials
- Field Operations Guide
- Training
- Analyst Exchanges
- Policy Updates
- App Communications Research
A best practice program to document and support the adoption of NYPD’s Field Intelligence Officer (FIO) model in ICG agencies. In partnership with the NYPD, this project will increase agency tools for reducing violent crime and terrorism. (Note: In 2017, the FIO program reached milestone accomplishments pertaining to intelligence driven policing: the program finished the year by recovering a total of 1,225 firearms based on information initiated by the FIOs. This was an increase of 4% over 2016. Also, in 2017, 38% of agency search warrants and 22.6% of guns seized by NYPD were initiated because of this program)

ODNI: Field Intelligence Officer Program NEW

- Program Documentation
- Agency and Regional Briefing Sessions
- Exchanges

2019 Additional Priorities and Projects

- Establishing an Organization Plan and Strategy for growing work of the Intelligence Commanders Group
- Real-time information sharing (daily and emergency)
- Increased sharing of model policies and practices
- Documentation of Local Agency/FBI case management process
- Document Role of Intel Commander/support onboarding and collaboration
- Increase sharing of training opportunities: FBI has made space available in the following offerings of their intel-related training to Intelligence Commanders and their agency personnel all-expenses paid:
  - Intel analyst training (usually just for FBI analysts) for Intel Commander analysts
  - Intel cycle awareness-level training for law enforcement supervisors
  - National Domestic Communications Assistance Center (NDCAC) training for analysts on how to obtain digital information, even with the Going Dark challenges.
- Support NSI and eGuardian updates
- Reinvigorate Terrorism Liaison Officer (TLO) programs and training
The MCCA Psychological Services Group (PSG) is open to psychologists and other mental health professionals who are employed or contracted by MCCA member agencies to coordinate or provide (a) psychological assessment services (e.g., preemployment evaluations of police candidates’ psychological suitability, fitness-for-duty evaluations of incumbent officers) or (b) intervention services (e.g., employee assistance counseling, critical incident debriefing), as well as other interested MCCA members.

The PSG was formed for the purpose of identifying the psychological services professionals who perform psychological assessment and intervention services for MCCA member agencies in order to (a) collaborate on matters of mutual interest and communicate important practice information, including innovative or emerging practice solutions and pertinent legal and research updates, and (b) serve as a resource to MCCA member agencies and administrators.

At the inaugural meeting of the PSG, held on October 20, 2017 at the Fall MCCA Meeting in Philadelphia, 18 psychologists attended, representing more than 24 MCCA member agencies (a result of several psychologists being contracted to provide services to several member agencies). Our second meeting was held on October 5, 2018 in Orlando, where 34 psychologists attended (representing 30 MCCA agencies), in addition to five sworn MCCA members whose administrative responsibilities included psychological assessment or intervention services. Topics discussed include:

- Retention challenges, particularly when hiring recruits who have no family or social ties in the new location.
- Procedural issues related to compulsory fitness-for-duty evaluations (e.g., routinely restricting an officer’s police authority pending the outcome of the evaluation)
- Innovative approaches to assessing for cultural competence in police candidates
- Compulsory vs. volunteer psychological debriefing following critical incidents, and compulsory vs. elective participation in wellness programs

<tr>
<th>Ongoing Challenges</th>

At present, we have identified fewer than half the professionals providing psychological assessment and intervention services to MCCA member agencies, and even fewer of the administrative personnel in each MCCA member agency who oversee these functions in their respective agencies. For the PSG to achieve its purpose, we need to fill this gap. In addition, we are looking for a means of establishing a listserv that will enable us to communicate efficiently with one another between meetings to address pressing needs, share important information, and solicit assistance. We are grateful for the privilege of serving the MCCA and look forward to working together to meet these and other challenges.
The Technology Committee seeks to foster efficiency, interoperability, and advancement of law enforcement technologies through collaboration and information sharing among MCCA member agencies.

The priorities for the committee are to:

- Discuss and develop technology standards, particularly for emerging technologies in law enforcement
- Leverage multi-agency requirements to drive innovation and reduce costs
- Analyze computer-aided dispatch upgrade/integration
- Analyze records management systems upgrade/integration
- Transition to the national incident-based reporting system
- Establish the following subcommittees (announced January 26th, 2018)
  - IT Strategy and Data Interoperability
  - Data Management and Storage
  - Communications Technology
  - Analytics and Data Driven Policing

On January 26, 2018, the committee convened in Long Beach, CA for the annual winter meeting. The Chair announced the new subcommittees, heard updates from federal partners, and reviewed the previous technology committee meeting (Philadelphia 2017) report.

On February 27-28, 2018, fifty-six public safety stakeholders, First Responder Network (FirstNet) Authority personnel, and AT&T representatives convened at the Houston Police Department (HPD) headquarters for FirstNet’s inaugural Applications Innovation Forum. The forum was able to identify applications and mobile technologies that law enforcement use today and identified operational needs that could be addressed by improving existing mobile applications or creating new ones. Forum speakers addressed various themes:

- Apps need to be flexible and functional for use in day-to-day operations, planned events, and critical incident response
- Future FirstNet apps and capabilities can improve both the safety and efficiency of responders
- Agencies are increasingly deploying Internet of Things (IoT) or Internet of Life Saving Things (IoLST) tools that require apps to both control the connected devices and manage the collected data
At the MCCA Fall Meeting in Orlando, the Technology Committee invited speakers from the Department of Homeland Security’s (DHS) Emergency Communications Division (ECD), FirstNet, and IJIS. The four subcommittees that were formed at the January 26th meeting (Long Beach) met for the first time to discuss their respective topics.

Common challenges that member agencies are facing include:

- Updating legacy systems
- Breaking down siloed processes
- Implementing agency wide enterprise solutions like CAD and RMS.
- Managing impact technology heavy ecosystems have on officer’s uncommitted time.

Moving forward, the Committee will:

- Recruit new members from among the MCCA member agencies
- Focus resources on building
- Fostering productive conversations in, the four new subcommittees
- Hold an in-person meeting in Chicago
- Meet virtually in May
- Participate in public safety innovation events hosted by FirstNet and other stakeholders to include IACP and IJIS
The target participant of this group is the person considered to be the Chief Administrative or Chief Financial Officer of the MCCA agency.

The purpose of the group is to:
- Provide to senior police management tasked with fiscal and administrative responsibilities training and information related to police fiscal matters and management/leadership skills
- Provide a means for police officials in similar capacities and similar sizes agencies to network to discuss mutual concerns
- Provide a means for police officials with fiscal and administrative management responsibilities to network with officials in related federal agencies and with non and for-profit partners
- Serve as a resource and subject matter experts for the Major Cities Chiefs

Participation
Member agencies of Major Cities Chiefs has a designated command level individual to be their representative in the Financial Managers group. The vast majority of the agencies have participated in at least one activity during the past year—whether it is attending the annual conference, responding to the annual survey, requesting information, responding to a member survey, or participating in the white paper project. Some of the information generated by the group's network has been passed on to smaller, non-MCCA agencies, and these agencies have expressed interest in the group.
The group's 29th annual conference was held in Universal City, California, October 14 through October 18, 2018. The conference was a success, with over 70 in attendance representing 50 agencies. The conference is open to Major Cities Chiefs’ agencies, participating Major County Sheriffs’ agencies. The core of the meeting are the roundtable discussions, which are similar to discussions held by the Chiefs in their meetings. In addition to the usual topical roundtable discussions, based on the concerns of the participating agencies, a Canadian only session was held to address specific issues of Canadian agencies. Updates to federal related issues was given by the COPS and BJA offices. A panel discussion was held on active shooter events that occurred in Austin and Las Vegas, and focused on the financial and human impact on the departments. Rick Myers, MCCA Executive Director, led a futurists discussion; Vernon Harry, formerly with FBI Academy, taught a leadership block; and Larry Yium, former Houston Financial Manager led a discussion on workforce issues.

Coordinated by the San Jose Police Department, the group conducted its annual survey/census of member agencies regarding a myriad of subjects related to the financial, personnel, equipment, salary/benefits, and other topics of interest during 2018. It is the most comprehensive look into the innerworkings of MCCA agencies. In addition, the group provided a means for MCCA agencies to poll other members regarding a half-dozen topics. Subjects receiving the most interest included staffing, salaries, equipment, and grants.

MCCA partnered with the Responsible Hospitality Institute (RHI) on the topic of public safety and policing in nightlife districts. Rick Prater, with the Tucson Police Department, coordinated with RHI a project on calculating and defining the cost of public safety and policing in nightlife districts. Assistance was also provided from students at the University of Arizona.
The Legislative Committee works with Congress and the Administration to advance the policies of the MCCA. The Committee examines issues that affect local law enforcement and works to influence legislation and policies related to law enforcement, crime, and public safety issues. The Committee strives to provide timely and knowledgeable information to chiefs and seeks to implement sound policies in Washington, D.C. and across the nation.

The PIO Committee was formed after the Nashville meeting in 2018. The role of the committee is to assist the executive team and member agencies with issues surrounding public information, publications, and strategic communication plan. Each member agency was invited to appoint one of their communication staff members onto the committee.

In 2018, the committee identified the following priorities:

- Implement monthly conference calls for member agency PIOs and communication officials
- Create and maintain an email distribution list for disseminating MCCA press releases
- Reinvigorate the MCCA Twitter and social media accounts
- Take a lead role in managing the COPS Office grant related to rebranding the profession
- Assist with a refresh of the MCCA website in 2019
- Create a quarterly newsletter for PIOs and communications professionals in member agencies
- For a training subcommittee to create synergy and develop a training track at the fall meeting for member agency PIOs
- Assist with aggressive marketing of key programs, content, and MCCA work through social media and publications
- Develop a strategic communication plan for MCCA in 2019-2020
- Standardize MCCA press releases and formatting
There are many ways the committee can assist member agencies. At each conference meeting, committee team members catalog sessions and forums by taking photographs and publishing information on MCCA social media platforms. The committee also assist with the distribution of news releases and print publications.

In 2019, the committee will begin hosting one-day training seminars for all PIOs during the fall conference. This will provide a unique opportunity for PIOs to bolster their skill sets during the MCCA fall meetings.
Major Cities Chiefs’ premier police chief development training program, the Police Executive Leadership Institute (PELI) conducted PELI VI in 2018/2019 with a class of 22. At the time PELI VI began, one of the class members had already been appointed as a chief, and near graduation week, a second member had been appointed Interim Chief for his agency. PELI includes two intense classroom weeks, in Sept (Chicago) and March (Washington, D.C.), sandwiched around a week of on-site mentoring with an assigned mentor Major City police chief. An all star faculty along with several veteran MCCA leaders provide relevant experiences and tools for future police chiefs to apply throughout their leadership journey. PELI remains an essential prerequisite for the preparation of future Major City police chiefs.

POLICE OFFICER’S PRAYER

Lord I ask for courage
Courage to face and
Conquer my own fears...

Courage to take me
Where others will not go...

I ask for strength
Strength of body to protect others
And strength of spirit to lead others...

I ask for dedication
Dedication to my job, to do it well
Dedication to my community
To keep it safe...

Give me Lord, concern
For others who trust me
And compassion for those who need me...

And please Lord
Through it all
Be at my side...
